The Ted Robinson-designed Tijeras Creek Golf Club is the tale of two nines. The course opens with a demanding front nine highlighted with shimmering water features that come into play on four out of the first nine holes. The back nine holes are legendary for breathtaking scenery, and awe-inspiring elevation changes that wind through old growth sycamores, oaks and native chaparral. In fact, hole number sixteen was voted one of Orange County's Best 18 Holes by members of the Southern California PGA.
